THE NEW MACMILLAN NOVELS

By Robert Herrick, of Chicago University

The Memoirs of an American Citizen

This interesting novel is at once the best work Mr. Herrick has done, and the strongest in popular appeal. It is the story of a boy who tramped his way into Chicago, of his experiences in the employ of the wholesale butchers thirty years ago, and his later history.

Illustrated with over 50 cuts in the text. $1.50

Foxcroft Davis's new novel of Washington life, Mrs. Darrell is by the author of "Despotism and Democracy," a crisp, piquant picture of the social life of high political circles; it is done with a light touch and with a dominant note of optimism rather than satire, which makes it pleasant reading.

Cloth, 12mo, $1.50

Charles Egbert Craddock's The Storm Center

is a sweet, natural love-story whose scenes are set in that golden atmosphere of the Tennessee mountains which its author can always reproduce with unrivaled charm.

Cloth, 12mo, $1.50

John Heigh's The House of Cards

is a very strong story of a somewhat exceptional kind, admirably written. It is told by a sometime major of U. S. V. of the age when wit is ripest, judgment mellowed, and outlook broadest.

Cloth, 12mo, $1.50

Miss Elizabeth Robins's A Dark Lantern

is a very modern story by the author of "An Open Question." Its pictures of English society are as graphic and authoritative as any that have appeared in fiction; it has an engrossing plot whose development carries a deeper element of interest for those who care to look below the surface.

Cloth, 12mo, $1.50

Mr. Jack London's The Game

A transcript from real life by the author of "The Call of the Wild," "The Sea-Wolf," etc.

Illustrated by Henry Hutt. Cloth, $1.50

NEW ROMANCE
GREAT MOGUL

Illustrations in Color by J. C. Chase.

¶ After giving the public two Tracy stories, it is a tremendous satisfaction to watch THE GREAT MOGUL go to press. The first story, you remember, was on a Malay island, and the next in an English light-house.

¶ The dissolute James I. did handsomely by India when he attempted to send two intrepid Englishmen to be killed by Spanish torture. These men met danger as a matter of course, battled grimly and loved desperately.

¶ THE GREAT MOGUL as a story is rich beyond comparison.

Artistic Calendars

For 1906

Harrison Fisher:

Mr. Fisher's 1906 calendar, with dainty title page and vivid full color drawings, is a step in advance of anything Mr. Fisher has heretofore done. There are five full figure, rich, pastel drawings of beautiful girls, including a bride, a horsewoman, a summer girl in a swing, and another in a bright colored evening dress. On the title page a charming girl in hat and furs is leading a large Russian wolf hound.

Size, 10 x 18½ inches; on mounts, 14 x 22 inches.

Price $3.00, boxed.

Sarah S. Stilwell:

Miss Stilwell's calendar is devoted to the portrayal of child life. It is unique and a thing of great beauty. On the title page is the head of a beautiful baby girl in a white bonnet with blue ribbons, relieved to good advantage by a gold background. The reproductions are all from oil paintings in full color and include a child asleep in its mother's arms in the firelight, children gathering spring flowers, a little girl in a grape arbor, and a seashore scene with two little girls with skirts fastened up, picking up shells at the water's edge.

Size, 10 x 18½ inches; on mounts, 14 x 22 inches.

Price $3 00, boxed.

Henry Hutt:

Mr. Hutt's 1906 calendar is beautiful from title page to the end. There are five drawings in Mr. Hutt's most successful vein. They are full figure drawings and the seasons are typified by beautiful girls fittingly occupied. Among them is a bathing girl in the surf. This calendar is a unit in harmony of color and design.

Size, 11 x 18 inches; on mounts, 14 x 22 inches.

Price $2.00, boxed.

Grace G. Wiederseim:

A Mother Goose Calendar in full colors composed of six Mother Goose subjects accompanied by the rhymes. This calendar is irresistibly humorous and will appeal to grown-ups as well as to children. It will be found a cheerful and entertaining companion throughout the year. Mrs. Wiederseim's drawings of children are unique in their conception and nothing in the calendar market will be found to fill a similar place.

Size, 11 x 19½ inches; on Bristol board, 14 x 22 inches.

Price $2.50, boxed.

"The book is perhaps the most remarkable in point of manufacture of any novel issued at the regular price."

BAKER & TAYLOR BULLETIN.

A. C. McCLURG & CO.,

the publishers of

believe that Mr. Bennet's story of Charlemagne is the most beautiful volume of regular-price fiction ever published. Certainly no other $1.50 novel has ever attracted an equal amount of attention from booksellers by its outward appearance. Immediately following its publication, letters came to the publishers from dealers in every part of the country, and two of these are given here, as the most direct evidence possible of the truth of this statement.

"I want to write and express my appreciation of 'For the White Christ.' It is seldom, if ever, I have had the opportunity to speak of a better book than this. When you stop and look at some of the books on the market that are being sold for $1.50, and compare these with the size of 'For the White Christ,' you cannot help noting how much more you are getting for your money. The story is entrancing. I wish we had another one equally good to read. It is a pleasure to take up a book of this nature after wading through the mass of problem novels and the trash that is thrown daily on the market." I congratulate you on the work and trust you will have a sale that will merit publishing more like it.

WALLACE H. CATHCART,

Secretary, THE BURROWS BROTHERS COMPANY,
Cleveland, Ohio.

"We ordered ten copies of 'For the White Christ' from our jobber on the strength of the make-up of your former books, but this volume is beyond our expectation, and we thought such a fine effort deserved the endorsement of the trade. If most of the books were made up like this, people would feel as though they were getting their money's worth, which is not the case when they purchase many of the new books. Such books would also soon put the book trade in a better condition, and books would then be sold on their merits. We believe that the publishers who first realize this and give the trade good value will be winners in the long run. If this book doesn't have a very large sale we know that we will be only one of many who will be sorry and feel that the public no longer care for beautiful books."

"From a literary and from an artistic standpoint, this volume is destined to be one of the books of the year."

"GO BACK," HE WHISPERED, "GO BACK!"
(Reduced Illustration.)

IT is now more than twenty-five years since The Leavenworth Case was first published, and it still remains the standard of comparison for all later detective stories, the most successful of which have been announced as "equal to The Leavenworth Case."

The aggregate sales of this engrossing and brilliant book have been far in advance of those of any detective story published before or since.

After wearing out two sets of plates, the publishers have decided to bring out an entirely new edition in full 12mo size, with frontispiece in colors and other striking illustrations by the well-known artist, G. W. Peters.

Champlin's YOUNG FOLKS CYCLOPÆDIA OF NATURAL HISTORY

By JOHN D. CHAMPLIN, assisted by FREDERIC A. LUCAS, late of the U. S. National Museum. With some 800 illustrations. $2.50.

One of the most important books of the year, especially for public and school libraries. Covers the entire animal kingdom, including the more important extinct animals. Readable and entertaining, full of anecdotes and personal experiences.

Pattee's HOUSE OF THE BLACK RING

A dramatic and humorous story of a Juliet among the "Seven Mountains" of Pennsylvania.

"Most attractive. . . Mr. Pattee knows his people and his country and allows his readers to share this knowledge. His characters are well drawn, his descriptions of the rugged scenery of the wild valleys beautiful, indeed. And the element of mystery broods over the narrative in a most absorbing way. We call this a rattling good story."—New York Press.

Owen's RED HEADED GILL, a mystery tale of Cornwall, is proving to be a book that won't die. A new edition has just been printed.

Stephenson's SHAKESPEARE'S LONDON

By HENRY THEW STEPHENSON. Illustrated. 12mo, $2.00 net. (By mail $2.15.)

At once a vivid portrayal and a careful and scholarly study, largely from contemporaneous sources, of the topography, customs, and picturesque side of Elizabethan life. There are some forty illustrations, mostly from old prints.

My Own Story

By

Caleb Powers

THE author of this remarkable book is the most pathetic figure in the political and criminal history of our times. Arrested in 1900 charged with the murder of Governor Goebel, of Kentucky, tried, retried, and tried again, convicted, sentenced to be hanged, and now in the Louisville jail awaiting his fourth trial, he here for the first time tells the story of his career. He tells it, too, with absolute candor and graphic detail. Outraged justice finds voice in these pages of personal vindication.

For dramatic situations, human interest and direct appeal to the American love of fair play, the case of Caleb Powers is unequalled. His autobiography is absorbingly interesting, not only because it is told with downright effectiveness and ardor, but also because it sets a brave man square with the world.

NOTES IN SEASON.

THE AMERICAN NEWS COMPANY have added to their Library of Popular Fiction Marie Corelli's powerful story, "The Soul of Lilith." The edition is printed on good paper, illustrated, and bound in paper covers printed in colors.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. will publish shortly "Curly," a romance of the Arizona Desert by Roger Pocock; also, "The Weird Picture," a new novel by John R. Carling, author of "The Shadow of the Czar," described as an ingenious modern romance of the havoc wrought by a frenzied artist in love with the heroine of the story.

THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY have just published a book by Caleb Powers entitled "My Own Story." During the five years that have elapsed since Mr. Powers was arrested, charged with the murder of Governor Goebel of Kentucky, many conflicting reports about his case have been sent abroad. This, the only complete and authentic statement of the situation, will no doubt command the attention of those who are interested in the political affairs of this country.

E. J. CLODE, 156 Fifth Avenue, New York, will publish on the 10th inst. "The Great Mogul," Louis Tracy's latest novel, which gives a vivid portrayal of life in the East. The Court of the Great Mogul, with love and intrigue amidst its royal magnificence, forms the background to the story, while the adventures of two daring young Englishmen, who seek their fortune in this then somewhat hostile country, are told with all the charm and interest that has made the author's two former books so popular. The volume will have illustrations in color by J. C. Chase.

DODD, MEAD & Co. have just published a detective story, "The Van Suyden Sapphires," by Charles Carey. The orders for the work far exceeded the supply on the day of publication, and a second edition is now printing. They will shortly publish "Motors and Motoring," by Henry J. Spooner, a practical book for automobilists; "Radium Explained," by Dr. W. Hampson, a popular account of the relations of radium to the natural world, to scientific thought and to human life; also, a work on "Balloons, Airships and Flying Machines," by Gertrude Bacon, giving accounts of the latest discoveries and inventions in these interesting fields.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY have just ready "Riding and Driving," by Edward L. Anderson and Price Collier, in The American Sportsman's Library; "A Short History of Venice," by William Roscoe Thayer, author of "The Dawn of Italian Independence," "Fenris, the Wolf," a tragedy, by Percy Mackaye, the author of "The Canterbury Pilgrims," also, "Primitive Traits in Religious Revivals," a study in mental and social evolution, by Professor F. M. Davenport. They will publish shortly a new story by Miss Elizabeth Robbins, entitled "A Dark Lantern," a story of English society in which the course of events is determined largely by the strongest motives and passions in human nature; also, a new story by Jack London, entitled "The Game—a Transcript from Life," which is said to resemble "The Call of the Wild" in the unity and rapidity of its action, in its singleness of purpose, and in the impression of power and of the inevitable which it conveys.

Some months ago the New England Conference, realizing the urgency of the rescue of its supernuantes, requested Bishop Goodsell, then presiding, to appoint one of its members to work out their deliverance. The bishop appointed the present writer, this volume being the result; its aim being to raise a permanent fund for the New England supernuantes, through its arguments and prayers. It cries out bitterly against neglect, desertion, betrayal and ingratitude, especially against filial ingratitude and asks for fair play, for consideration for "the worst treated class of humanity."

Branch, Anna Hempstead. The shoes that danced, and other poems. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1905. c. 9+201 p. D. cl., $1.10 net.

By the author of "The heart of the road." The volume includes a one-act play in blank verse dealing with a romantic episode in the life of the painter Watteau, which is exceedingly interesting, some sonnets, and a variety of poems of refinement and original thought.

Brenholtz, Edwin Arnold. The recording angel: a novel. Chic., C. H. Kerr & Co., 1905. c. 287 p. D. cl., $1.

How the hard and often merciless business methods of the present that are extant in many factories and manufacturing places effect the health and happiness of the employees, is illustrated in this story. That there is another side to the dark picture is also shown, while a tender love story further brightens the narrative.

Brooks, Elisabeth W. As the world goes by. Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1905. c. 2+375 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

The fascinating star, "Mary Manton," and her charming young daughter occupy the centre of the stage in this story. The actress, who has accumulated wealth in her twenty years of stage life, is respected as well as admired, although known to have been divorced from her husband after a few years of married life. "Incompatibility" was the cause—her bohemian nature finding his rather severe conventional outlook upon life unendurable. The young daughter, loving her mother, still longs to know her father, and goes finally to his care—in a New York home of great luxury. The girl's love story, a long residence abroad, scenes from both professional and social life in New York, are described with earnestness and reality.

While there is no dearth of good natural histories, they are all voluminous, usually consisting of six or ten bulky volumes, and are published at prices prohibitive to many purses, especially those of young folks. Many of these publications are admirable, others again are padded with much that is utterly useless to the general reader. The present work is an attempt then to fill what seems to the author a vacant place among books relating to natural history; for it includes in a single compact volume, at a moderate price, an outline of the entire animal kingdom, from the largest mammal down to the tiniest insect that has to be studied under a magnifying glass.

In October of 1859, a party of pleasure seekers who entered the famous Mammoth Cave of Kentucky, with the intention of exploring it, failed to return. Every effort was made to find the party, but the search was finally given up, as fruitless. This story purports to be the diary of one of the members of the party lost in the cave, and is a thrilling story of remarkable and unusual adventure.

Gunter, Archibald Clavering. A prince in the garret: a novel. N. Y., Home Publishing Co., [1905.] c. 3-278 p. 1 il. D. cl., $1.50; pap., 50 c.

A pension on the Rue de Provence, Paris, conducted by an elderly Englishwoman, formerly a school teacher and rather severe towards her queer collection of boarders, is the scene. Two of her former pupils—both Americans—drift to her house. One believes herself to be a great heiress, then is led to think she has lost her fortune. She tries to hide her identity, as she fears the fortune hunter. The other has just been privately married, and has been placed with her old teacher for protection, while her husband is absent on business. He pretends he is her brother, she masquerading under her maiden name. Many amusing complications arise as both girls find admirers. The time is 1867.

"While to rescue the character of the rich man from what the writer considers the unscriptural aspersions cast upon him by the teachings of churchmen from the time of 'the early fathers,' is the prime object of the following pages, various considerations that seem quite germane to the principal purpose suggest themselves and demand expression. In the number of these considerations come up the matter of man having been created in the image of God; the natural man and the spiritual man; future punishment; Satanic evolution and Christian involution; the judgment of the great day."—Introduction.

Ray, Anna Chapin, and Fuller, Hamilton Brock. On the firing line: a romance of South Africa. Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1905. c. 3+289 p. D. cl., $1.50.

A young Canadian of good social position and with wealthy parents desires to cast his lot in with his English brethren in South Africa. The time is 1901, and the story opens on a steamer bound for Cape Town. The romance of Harvard Weldon begins here with his meeting with Ethel Dent, a young English girl who has been at school in England. Weldon enlists as a private in a cavalry regiment and does heroic work in the Transvaal and afterward in the army of the Orange River Colony. The scenes take in battlefields, camp life, life in the hospital ward, and the characters are English officers, troopers, nurses, natives, etc. The homely incidents are presented with an epigrammatic dialogue that makes them full of charm.

Taylor, W: Alex. Evolution of the statesman. Columbus, O., The XXth Century Publishing Co., 1905. c. 5-293 p. D. pap., 50 c.

A picture is presented in the person of the Honorable George Bascomb Courtenay of the corrupt "boss" and politician of to-day. How he rises to greatness from being the proprietor of a famous saloon called "The Shades" in a city of Ohio and fills the highest offices in his state, is depicted with keen satire. His "graft" methods are set down in detail and with much seriousness, and are both instructive and entertaining readings.

Author, Professor of Educational Psychology in Teachers' College, Columbia University. Prof. W: James of Harvard University contributes an introduction which cordially endorses the work. Prof. Thorndike says in his preface: "The aim of this book is to help students to learn the general principles of psychology. Those facts which can most profitably be made the subject matter of a course in general psychology are presented with an abundance of concrete illustrations, experiments, exercises and questions, by which the student may secure real rather than verbal conceptions and may test, apply and make permanent his knowledge."

Wilson, W: Rob. Anthony. A knot of blue; with il. by C: Grunwald. Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1905. [Ap.] c. 8+355 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

A story of Quebec in the olden days when the land was still New France and the English and French contended for its possession. The heroine is the ward of the governor of the Province and her lover is a soldier of great renown on both sides of the sea. The knot of blue was passed through a piece of gold that at different times changed hands and influenced events. A fool and a card-sharper play important parts.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

MAY 6, 1905.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE DICTIONARY SITUATION.

It is perhaps just to the retail trade that a few plain words should be said regarding the legal and trade status of Webster's dictionaries, as to which a "merry war" is raging between the Messrs. Merriam, the old-time publishers of the authorized Webster series, and G. W. Ogilvie, of Chicago, the most aggressive publisher of rival "Websters."

The question of the right to use the word "Webster's" in connection with dictionaries has been before the courts many times, and several decisions have been made to the effect that there is no copyright and can be no copyright in the name Webster in relation with the dictionaries or otherwise. Copyright extends to a book and incidentally to the descriptive title thereof only during the statutory period, and there is no indirect method of continuing copyright beyond that period. This the courts have again and again decided, in both copyright and patent relations, with respect not only to Webster's dictionaries but to Singer sewing-machines, and, recently, in a Remington typewriter case, in which the United States Supreme Court has reversed the ruling of a lower court and held anew that, as the patent has expired, the name describing the type of machine cannot be protected. The question is again raised in the suits between the Merriam Company and Mr. Ogilvie heard in Boston some weeks since, but in which no decision has yet been handed down; but it is not probable that earlier decisions of the courts on this point will be challenged. So far as we know, no trademark protection of the word has been found possible.

The early copyright of the original Noah Webster dictionary expired more than a generation ago, and no legal means has been found or seems to exist by which any person can be prevented from using the word "Webster" in connection with a dictionary, or using the material of those editions for which the copyright period has passed. Consequently many Webster's dictionaries, in rivalry with Messrs. Merriam's standard issues, have appeared, and no suits in restraint of them have been successful or are likely to be successful so long as reprints or rival editions do not use the later material in the Merriam Webster dictionaries still protected by copyright.

Mr. Ogilvie has claimed that his Webster's Imperial Dictionary has not made use of any material in the later Webster's dictionaries still within the copyright period and therefore protected under the copyright law. This is a question of fact, and unless it can be successfully traversed by the Merriam Company the publication and sale of that dictionary can scarcely be prevented by any process of law.

We regret to have had several complaints from retail dealers that suits have nevertheless been brought against them individually by the Merriam Company to restrain their sale of the book, presumably on the ground that there is a right to the exclusive use by the Merriam Company of the word Webster or of the Webster dictionary material. To defend even a groundless suit costs a considerable sum of money, and it is not fair to bring such individual suits unless there is ground for them. In this respect the Merriam Company, in seeking to protect its general rights, seems to have done individual wrongs.

The announcement by Mr. Ogilvie, or by the "United Dictionary Company" under his management, of a "Webster's Brief International Dictionary" involves a definite challenge of the Merriam copyright on the International Dictionary itself. We understand that this is based on the technicality that the Messrs. Merriam for some reason issued an edition of this dictionary, or permitted the issue of such an edition, without the statutory copyright notice, thus opening the dictionary to free use. If copies were so issued by the owners of the copyright or under their authority, the copyright is unfortunately vitiated—and this also is a question of fact.

The sample page and announcements of the Ogilvie "Brief International Dictionary" indicate, however, a photographic reproduction of Webster's High School Dictionary, copyright 1892 by G. & C. Merriam Co. and published under their authorization by the American Book Company as well as by themselves. As an original compilation from the International Dictionary this would have a copyright independent of the copyright on the International Dictionary as its source, and while the original sources, if the alleged circumstances are correct, might be open to free use, presumably the separate copyright on a compilation which in itself included selective or editorial labor can be legally protected, unless this specific High School Dictionary has also been published in an edition without the copyright notice—a question of fact also to be decided in the courts.

THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY has always upheld the doctrine that the men who have done work—authors or publishers—are entitled to the fruits of their labor. It has therefore sympathized with every fair endeavor of the Merriam Company to protect their rights in the series of books which has been so long issued under their imprint and which has been constantly bettered as a result of their enterprise and labor. The use of the original Webster material and of the word "Webster" in Mr. Ogilvie's Imperial Dictionary, which is claimed to be otherwise a work of original labor adopting the distinctive Websterian method of orthography, is not without justification from many points of view; but the photographic reprint of the High School Dictionary, involving no original labor, seems to us to be without justification, except on the ground that "everything is fair in war." We cannot, however, uphold the contention that copyright material can in any way be protected after the copyright period has passed, and on behalf of the retail trade we must enter protest against the bringing of suits against individual dealers unless there is fair legal basis for such suits.

TO CONSOLIDATE METHODIST BOOK CONCERNS.

THE commission of Methodist clergymen and laymen, appointed by the General Conference last year to consider the unification of the eastern and western manufacturing departments of the Methodist Book Concern, held its first meeting on April 27, at the offices of the New York Methodist Book Concern at Fifth Avenue and Twentieth Street. The scheme of consolidating the manufacturing concerns has long engaged the attention of the General Conference, the general feeling having prevailed that the work of the Eastern concern, especially, could be more economically done elsewhere. There has, however, been an equally strong feeling in the East against transferring its manufacturing plant to the West. The present commission was therefore appointed to formulate a scheme to be presented at the next General Conference for adoption.

The commission is headed by the Rev. Dr. James R. Day, chancellor of Syracuse University. Among the members are the Rev. Dr. W. W. Evans, of Central Pennsylvania, who has made a long study of denominational publishing interests; the Rev. Dr. W. H. Crogman, of Atlanta, Ga., president of Clark University; R. H. Beggs, of Denver; the Rev. Dr. De Witt Clinton Huntington, president of Nebraska Wesleyan University; H. C. Miller, of Chicago; the Rev. Dr. C. U. Wade, presiding elder of Fort Wayne District, North Indiana Conference; F. A. Chamberlain, of Minneapolis, son-in-law of Bishop Foss; the Rev. Dr. G. R. Addicks, member St. Louis German Conference; Hon. R. A. Booth, Eugene, Oregon; G. F. Washburn, manufacturer and capitalist, of Boston; the Rev. Dr. C. H. Buck, of New York East Conference; the Rev. Dr. E. M. Mills, of Central New York Conference, well known as the successful leader in the recent movement for twentieth century offering of $20,000,000; Calvin Whitney, of Norwalk, Ohio, a steel magnate, and J. E. Annis, of Chattanooga, Tenn., a manufacturing chemist.

SOUTH AFRICAN IMPORTS OF BOOKS AND STATIONERY.

ACCORDING to the Caxton Magazine returns show that, out of the import of £268,000 worth of books and stationery into Natal in 1904, £2000 worth of books and music and £5860 worth of stationery came from Germany, and £6000 and £2300 worth respectively from the United States. Germany sent £6600 worth of printing papers and £2800 worth of brown and wrapping papers, and the United States £4000 worth of printing paper and £2200 worth of paper bags.

The imports of paper, stationery and books into Natal for the first quarter of 1905 amounted to £55,000, as against £68,000 in the first quarter of 1903. Cape Colony imported during the first four months of this year £202,000 worth of stationery and books, as against £306,000 in the same period of last year. The Orange River Colony during nine months imported £23,000 worth of stationery and fancy goods, against £14,000 worth in the same period of the previous year. Paper, stationery and books were imported into the Transvaal in the four months to April 30 to the value of £90,000, as against £138,000 in the same time last year. The Orange River Colony excepted, all the totals show a considerable falling off.

THE LOCALIZATION OF BOOKS BY THEIR BINDINGS.

STRICKLAND GIBSON, at the February meeting of the London Bibliographical Society, read a paper on "The Localization of Books by Their Bindings," the object of which was to suggest the means by which bindings may be made to throw some light on the history of the books they contain. The term "localization" includes both place and time. To arrive at any conclusions likely to be of value, it is necessary to consider each component part of a binding, to trace its evolution, and to note the various styles of decoration employed. Therefore, account must be taken of leathers, boards, headbands, the decoration of book-edges, and lastly, the tooling of the covers.

Leather.—Probably calf has been the leather most frequently used for bookbindings, and in the Middle Ages it was so tanned as to be far more durable than at present. Buck (or doe) skin was another common leather, and was largely employed throughout Europe. English manuscripts bound in that leather generally date from before 1400. White sheepskin was in general use in England down to the middle of the 15th century, when it gave way to calf. Pigskin, especially the hardened kind, is, roughly speaking, confined to Germanic countries. Morocco was the leather commonly used in Italy and Spain from about the middle of the 15th century. The mere color of the leather is sometimes a valuable clue to the provenance of a binding—for instance, manuscripts which one belonged to Reading Abbey can easily be identified by the reddish-brown leather used for their coverings. Bright red leather was extremely common in France about 1400, to judge from the inventory of the books which belonged to Jean, duc de Berri. Velvet and silk were probably quite common book coverings in France and Italy from the 14th century.

Boards.—The earliest material was naturally wood. Oak was almost invariably used in England from the 12th century to the end of the fifteenth. Beech was largely employed by Continental binders. Pasteboards are perhaps first found in Europe on Italian books.

Headbands.—A very large number of English monastic manuscripts have parti-colored headbands, some of which are very distinctive. Plaited-leather headbands are very common on German 15th century bindings.

Decoration of Book-Edges.—In England book-edges seem to have been first decorated in the 14th century. Excellent examples are on the Ormesby Psalter and on a manuscript, (Bodl. 712,) written for Bishop Wyville. The decoration of these early examples generally consists of conventional foliage. Gilt edges are first found on Italian and French books of the 15th century; they are not found on English books until after 1500.

Naturally, tooled bindings are the easiest to localize, and especially those decorated with panel-stamps and rolls, which often bear the name or initials of their owners. Unfortunately at the present moment there is a great lack of suitable reproductions of book-stamps. Reproductions of pencil rubbings by the collotype process will probably be found the most satisfactory.

In deciding whether a binding is original, it is best to consider the boards and their covering separately. The re-covering of the boards of manuscripts was by no means uncommon, and it is possible to find cases in which the boards are two or three centuries earlier than the leather that is on them.

One class of binding must be considered by itself, namely, that found on Greek manuscripts. It is a curious fact that these bindings have certain characteristics in common, irrespective of the country where they were reproduced. The edges of the boards are generally grooved, and the headbands project some distance beyond the boards at head and tail. There are some very interesting Greek manuscripts written between 1490 and 1550, and contained within English bindings in New College Library. In the case of these late Greek manuscripts the binding is a very valuable clue to the date of the manuscript. For instance, New Coll. 41 is described as of the second half of the 16th century, but as it is in a "Berthelet" binding it would be quite safe to date it as c. 1550. In dating Greek bindings some caution is necessary, as many of them appear to be much older than they really are.

As a practical instance of the usefulness of being able to make a binding yield up its secrets, Mr. Gibson mentioned the recent positive identification, chiefly by its binding, of the Bodleian First Folio Shakespeare.

TYPES OF AMERICAN LITERATURE.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. announce an interesting series of literary studies rather different from anything now available—a series which ought to be valuable to the critical reader of books as well as to students and scholars. It is to consist of a number of monographs, each volume dealing with the origin and development of a single literary genre, instead of a period or an author. The following volumes have already been arranged for: "The Ballad," by Professor F. B. Gummere, of Haverford; "The Novel," by Dr. Bliss Perry, editor of the Atlantic Monthly; "The Lyric," by Professor F. E. Schelling, of the University of Pennsylvania; "Tragedy," by Professor A. H. Thorndike, of Northwestern University; "The Pastoral," by Professor J. B. Fletcher, of Columbia University; "The Essay," by Dr. Ferris Greenslet, of the Atlantic Monthly; "Character Writing," by C. N. Greenough, of Harvard; "Saints' Legends," by D. G. H. Gerould, of Bryn Mawr; "Literary Criticism," by Professor Irving Babbitt, of Harvard; "The Short Story," by Professor W. M. Hart, of the University of California; and "Allegory," by the general editor, Professor W. A. Neilson, of Columbia University. Each volume will contain a complete bibliography. Such a series, written with spirit and literary charm, and avoiding the hard style in which works on scholarly subjects are so often presented, should find a place on the shelves of all who love our own literature and the great one which we have inherited. All the volumes announced are now in preparation

RARE FIFTEENTH CENTURY BOOKS REPRODUCED.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY are to be the agents in this country for a series of twelve photogravure facsimiles of rare fifteenth century books printed in England and now in the University Library, Cambridge, which the Cambridge University Press have in preparation. The first four books are: Chaucer's "Anelida and Arcite," from the unique copy of the Westminster edition of William Caxton, (1477-8); "Augustini Dacti Scribe sup Tullianis elegancijs & verbis exoticis in sua facundissima Rethorica incipit pornate libellus," from the unique copy printed at St. Albans (about 1479-80) by "The Schoolmaster Printer." The curious minute types used for printing this book do not occur again, except in the "signatures" of the "Laurentius de Saona" of 1480 and of the "Joannes Canonicus;" "The Temple of glas," by John Lydgate, from the unique copy of the Westminster edition of William Caxton (1477-8); and "Thomas Betson's Ryght profytable treatyse" (from St. Jerome, St. Bernard, Gerson, etc.) (1500), from the copy printed by Wynkyn de Worde in Caxton's house, from the only copies known to exist. It is proposed to publish the first four books this spring. Only two hundred copies of each will be for sale, when the plates will be destroyed.

AN INTERESTING DANTE COLLECTION.

LEO S. OLSCHKI, the bookseller of Florence, has recently purchased the Dante collection of Leonidas Leonetti of Udine. This collection contains, with a few exceptions, every edition of Dante, in the original and in translations, etc., that appeared from 1477 to 1904, and upwards of 3000 essays and dissertations in all languages referring to Dante. Were Mr. Olschki, who has made a specialty of Dante literature, to combine this collection with his own, the combined collection would easily be the most complete in existence. This is not likely to happen, as the Leonetti collection is offered for sale in one lot. It were desirable, however, that the present owner of the two collections might publish a catalogue of them for historical and bibliographical purposes.

PAPER TO BE MADE OF IRISH BOG.

PAPER manufacturers all over Ireland, according to the London Publishers' Circular, are discussing with great interest the project undertaken by William M. Callender, of New York, to manufacture paper from Irish bog peat. The general opinion prevailing in Dublin is that the project will be a success.

Mr. Callender has been intimately identified with the paper trade for more than twenty years. The process discovered by him of making bog mould or "peat" into paper was the result of long study and experiment, and it is being put to the test near the famous bogs of Allan, in the heart of Ireland.

GERMAN BOOK PRODUCTION IN 1904.

THE following statistics of the book production in Germany, during 1904, were prepared by J. C. Hinrichs, the publisher of the official booktrade bibliography:

	1903	1904
1. Bibliography, Library Economy, Encyclopædias, Completed works, Collected works, Publications of Societies and Universities.....	491	510
2. Theology.....	2,468	2,571
3. Law and Political Science.....	2,348	2,403
4. Medicine.....	1,848	1,989
5. Natural Sciences, Mathematics.....	1,430	1,531
6. Philosophy, Theosophy.....	505	642
7. Education, Books for the Young.....	4,384	4,218
8. Language and Literature.....	1,693	1,728
9. History.....	1,048	1,157
10. Geography, Atlases and Charts.....	1,294	1,391
11. Military Science.....	640	622
12. Commerce, Industrial Arts, Railways.....	1,858	1,809
13. Architecture and Engineering.....	834	918
14. Domestic Economy, Agriculture and Forestry.....	862	960
15. Belles-Lettres (Drama and Popular Literature).....	3,903	3,954
16. Art.....	929	907
17. Directories, Calendars, Year-books.....	615	629
18. Miscellaneous.....	456	439
Total.....	27,606	28,378

These statistics, as already pointed out, while probably the most reliable of any book statistics compiled, are misleading in that the figures include so many pamphlets and leaflets issued by universities which in other countries are not regarded as books, but which help considerably to swell the total of German book production.

BOOKS IN THE HOMES OF GERMAN WORKMEN.

THE Statistical Bureau of Dresden, Saxony, has made an inventory of the household effects of eighty-seven representative workingmen's families to arrive at the literary status of the average workingman. While the figures cannot possibly fix a standard they are nevertheless interesting as far as they go.

Of the eighty-seven households, sixteen did not own any books; in the remaining seventy-one households the character of the books varied as follows:

Natural sciences.....	13	works in 28 homes.
Hygiene.....	14	" 45 "
Technical books.....	15	" 16 "
Anti-religious books.....	4	" 8 "
Law books.....	19	" 41 "
Political writings.....	25	" 63 "
Domestic economy.....	6	" 9 "
History.....	11	" 32 "
Geography.....	4	" 4 "
Dictionaries.....	10	" 24 "
Foreign dictionaries.....	6	" 6 "
Literature (including music).....	37	" 52 "
Fiction.....	14	" 16 "
Periodicals.....	15	" 36 "

A recent issue of the Reichs-Arbeitsblätter contained estimates of the incomes and expenses of 908 households among the poorer workingmen of Berlin, comprising 3828 persons. A household of eight persons expending $506 a year, paid out for books and newspapers $14; among the total expenses of seven other households of eight persons each, nearly two and one-half per cent. was for books and newspapers. The average spent by families of two persons each, for books was .013 per cent. and the lowest was .09 per cent. for families of nine persons each.

WHAT ANTHONY TROLLOPE GOT FOR HIS BOOKS.

TROLLOPE, according to Marcus Reed, in Macmillan's Magazine, "had his own troubles, not a few, in connection with the imaginary valuations which so upset the never too steady literary market. As he himself tells us, the reading public gave him, first and last, only £727 11s. 3d. for 'The Warden' and 'Barchester Towers' together, but paid him £3525 for 'Can You Forgive Her?'; while for 'The Kellys and the O'Kellys' he never received a single penny. Knowing his own work, and being without any special predilection for any one of his novels, he frankly confesses that he does not understand these valuations in the least, but on the whole was not inclined to be too hard on the said reading public in consideration of the handsome total, £68,939 17s. 5d., paid him for his life-work—somewhat less than Titian's as we have seen, but acceptable, coming from a not too discerning public.

"We do not often get the benefit of such actual and precise figures as Trollope gives us in his 'Autobiography.' Rumor, which is too often all we have to go by, deals in round figures, and disdains shillings and pence as much as Mr. Mantalini did. We know that Milton received £10 for 'Paradise Lost,' Voltaire got £8000 for the 'Henriade,' Hall Caine is said to have received £20,000 for the 'Eternal City,' a superb price surely, like that of the Ariosto, odd pence being not worth mentioning. There is much in this singular sequence and comparison of values to throw a doubt on the value of public or private standards."

PARSIFAL SUIT DISCONTINUED.

THE suit of Frau Cosima Wagner, widow of the composer, against Heinrich Conried, of the New York Metropolitan Opera House, growing out of the American production of "Parsifal," has been discontinued by mutual consent.

This suit was begun in the fall of 1903, when Mr. Conried announced that he would produce "Parsifal" on Christmas Eve. Petition was also made for a temporary injunction restraining him from producing the opera until the suit regarding his rights to the work was settled. This injunction was denied, and both Mr. Conried and Mr. Savage have performed "Parsifal" many times since.

A HINT TO BUYERS.

EVERY time you make a purchase stop a moment and think just why you bought the article you did buy in preference to some similar article. A knowledge of the motives that influenced you to buy another man's goods will teach you how to influence others to buy yours.

OBITUARY.

JOHN McLOUGHLIN.

JOHN McLOUGHLIN, the founder of the firm of McLoughlin Brothers, famous for their toy books, etc., died at his home, 2041 Fifth Avenue, New York, April 27.

Mr. McLoughlin was born in the city of New York on November 29, 1827, and practically passed his whole life within its borders. From a very early age he developed the strong traits of character which afterward brought him success, and he may be said to have carved his own way by sheer force and ability. While little more than a boy he joined the old firm of R. H. Elton & Company and there learned wood engraving. At twenty-one years of age he was taken into the firm.

JOHN M'LOUGHLIN.

Elton retired in 1850 and his business continued, but not without many ups and downs. The establishment was burned down, but afterwards rebuilt and started again. In 1855 Mr. McLoughlin took his brother Edmund into partnership and thus founded the firm of McLoughlin Brothers. Edmund McLoughlin retired in 1885, and on October 17, 1889, died in Brooklyn, N. Y., at the age of fifty-five. After Edmund McLoughlin retired, the two sons of John McLoughlin entered the business, and now constitute the second generation of McLoughlin Brothers.

McLoughlin Brothers first opened business at 24 Beekman Street. In 1861, their quarters having become too small, they removed to 30 Beekman Street. Then it became necessary to have a large factory, and a move was made to the Eastern district of Brooklyn, where the first of the large buildings which now constitute the present plant was erected in 1865 and opened in May, 1870. In the meanwhile the head offices remained in New York, in Green Street, from May, 1870, to February, 1871. Then a move was made to 71 and 73 Duane Street; this lasted until 1886, when the offices moved to 623 Broadway, and from there to 874 Broadway from 1892 to 1898. The present offices are now at 890 Broadway. During these years the Brooklyn factory was gradually enlarged until at present it is the largest of its kind in the country, if not the world.

John McLoughlin was essentially progressive. He was a man of commanding personality who knew not what defeat meant. No obstacle ever arose in his path but it was in the end swept away. When he first took hold of the children's book and game business there was but little order or system in the business. The books were quaint but poorly printed and illustrated. The colors were laboriously put on by hand with stencils. Mr. McLoughlin introduced the then wonderful process of printing from relief etched zinc plates. The books colored in this way were an immense improvement and the public was not slow to recognize the fact. From that time forward he led and others followed. Every child in the land knows the McLoughlin toys and books, and even across the seas their editions of "Mother Goose" has been sent printed in many languages. In fact, the history in the last decade of colored toy books for youngsters is the history of Mr. McLoughlin and his firm.

About two years ago Mrs. McLoughlin died and since that time Mr. McLoughlin's health failed visibly. But notwithstanding he kept a lively interest in the business up to within a week of his death. The two surviving sons carry on the firm of McLoughlin Brothers.

COMMUNICATIONS.

AN ARGUMENT FOR ABOLISHING FICTITIOUS LIST PRICES.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: We beg to call your attention to the following line clipped from the bottom of a poster received by us in to-day's mail:

12mo, Cloth, Illustrated, $1.50; Our price, $1.08

We can conceive of no stronger argument for the doing away with the fictitious list price on fiction, from the fact that a publisher will himself send out a bulletin for the retailer to display, on which he prints plain enough for him who runs to read that the price which he proposes to publish the book at is merely a conventional fictitious value designed to delude the ordinary public.

THE PEASE-LEWIS CO.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 29, 1905.

STOP THIEF.

To the Book Trade:

SOME unscrupulous person is securing books from the trade on our account. At Munn & Co.'s, (Scientific American), he used the name N. Sanson in receipting for books obtained from them, and at William Wood & Co.'s he signed for them as M. Sarsons. There is no such person in our employ, and all orders for our account should be on our regular order blanks, numbered and signed. We use no list books, and have so notified the trade about two years ago.

E. P. DUTTON & Co.

NEW YORK, May 2, 1905.

THE WEBSTER'S DICTIONARY WAR.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: It may be of interest to the trade to know that G. & C. Merriam Co. have brought suit in the United States Court in this city, asking for an injunction to restrain the issue of Webster's Brief International Dictionary, which has been advertised in THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY for some weeks as a book to be published on May 5.

There can be no question whatever as to the right of the Merriam Co. to bring a suit if they wish, but neither can there be any question as to the right of the United States Dictionary Co. to publish Webster's Brief International Dictionary, for the reason that the book is published in England without the copyright notice, which the law makes it obligatory upon any one who wishes to retain a copyright to insert in each copy of every edition published.

Webster's Brief International Dictionary as well as Webster's International Dictionary are published in England without said copyright notices, and the books are therefore in exactly the same condition as was any English author's book, before the passage of the international copyright law, namely, subject to republication in the United States by any one who chose to publish it.

The trade has had their attention drawn to the publication of this book, as they have also had their attention drawn to the Merriam Co.'s threat to interfere with its publication, as evidenced by an advertisement headed "To Whom it May Concern" on page 1216 of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, issue of April 29, said notice being signed G. & C. Merriam Co., Springfield, Mass.

The United Dictionary Co. concede to no corporation, or individual, a greater respect for the law than it possesses, but it does not believe that the G. & C. Merriam Co. or any other corporation, or individual, are laws unto themselves, and that because of non-compliance with the statutory provision for obtaining and holding a copyright, the Merriam Co. has any rights greater than would be accorded to any other person. Numerous decisions by United States Court judges in various districts uphold and endorse the belief of the United Dictionary Co. in this respect, and they enter the legal conflict, instituted by the Merriam Co., with supreme confidence as to the outcome. Yours very truly,

THE UNITED DICTIONARY CO.

CHICAGO, May 3, 1905.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

The Cosmopolitan Magazine, it is reported on good authority, has been sold by John Brisben Walker to William R. Hearst, of Journal fame. The price paid was not learned, but it was said that Mr. Walker would continue to manage the magazine for five years. Mr. Hearst sailed for Europe on the 2d inst.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

THE REV. CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY, preacher and novelist, has accepted a call to the pastorate of Trinity Parish, Toledo, O., where he has been preaching temporarily since the resignation of the Rev. A. Leffington, two weeks ago. He will take permanent charge in September and remove from Flatbush, N. Y., to Toledo in the same month.

GUSTAVE FRENSSEN, the author of the successful novel, "Jörn Uhl," an English translation of which has just been brought out in this country by Dana Estes & Co., has received for it about $63,000, an unprecedented sum in Germany. He is now at work on a new novel which he hopes to finish in the course of the year. The scene is again laid in his native Schleswig-Holstein, and the title is to be "Aus einer kleinen Stadt."

BOOTH TARKINGTON has written a new novel, in which he has returned to the scene of his great success, "The Gentleman from Indiana." The serial rights have been secured by Harper's Magazine, and the first instalment will appear in the June number, following Mrs. Ward's great work which concludes with the May issue. The story, which bears the title of "The Conquest of Canaan," will be illustrated by Lucius D. Hitchcock.

It is not generally known that Ernest W. Hornung, who wrote "The Amateur Cracksmen," and whose new book, "Stingaree," has just come out, is a brother-in-law of Conan Doyle. "The Amateur Cracksmen" is dedicated to his brother-in-law, saying simply, "To A. C. D.," his form of flattery. Mr. Hornung says of his stories that they are not detective stories pure and simple, but that primarily they are character sketches. "It is not merely the problem that has to be worked out, but the characters that have to be studied even more carefully."

ONE of the highest honors ever bestowed by the Italian Government upon a foreigner has just been granted to Professor Charles Eliot Norton by King Victor Emmanuel. Professor Norton has been made a Grand Officer of the Crown of Italy in recognition of his distinguished services in translating Dante's works into the English language, and for his studies in Italian art and history. Two other Harvard graduates, the late William Wetmore Story and William R. Thayer, were some years ago made Knights of the Order of which Professor Norton has just become a Grand Officer.

Little, and the style of the firm hereafter will be Theodore's Book Store Co. The new firm announce that it has a capital of $10,000 all paid in and no indebtedness whatever.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

THE SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION has just published an "Index to the Literature of Indium," covering the subject from 1863 to 1903. The index has been prepared by Dr. Philip E. Browning of the Kent Chemical Laboratory of Yale University. The contributions of ninety-three authors, treating on fifty-eight views of the subject, are referred to. The Index forms part of Vol. XLVI. of the Smithsonian Miscellaneous Collections and is numbered 1571. (16 p. 8°.)

NOTES AND QUERIES.

REYNOLDS'S "LIFE OF CALHOUN."—Just before the Rebellion, I understand, Derby & Jackson, Philadelphia, issued two of the three volumes of a life of John C. Calhoun, by Bernard A. Reynolds, of Mobile. They were seized by the Government, and the book was not put on the market—the third volume not even printed. Can any one give me any more information than this? W. ABBATT.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

L. C. PAGE & COMPANY will publish shortly "Brothers of Peril," a story by Theodore Roberts. The illustrations, which are by H. C. Edwards, are in that artist's best vein, and will be reproduced in tint.

THE CENTURY COMPANY will publish shortly "Mrs. Essington," by Esther and Lucia Chamberlain, a romance of a house-party, the scenes of which are laid in Monterey, a coast resort near San Francisco. The book will have six full-page illustrations by Henry Hutt.

JEAN TERQUEM, son of Em. Terquem, of Paris, who, since the St. Louis Exposition was closed, has been making a tour of the country, sailed for home on the 4th inst. He wishes to thank his many friends in the trade and the librarians whom he had the pleasure of meeting for the many courtesies extended to him.

DURING the coming general election in England the subject of national expenditure and national defence will be considered. A committee of the Cobden Club has prepared a review and manifesto on these subjects under the title of "The Burden of Armaments." The book will be published immediately by the A. Wessels Company.

HENRY HOLT & Co. announce that their six best sellers during April were "The Princess Passes," "The Lightning Conductor," "The Divine Fire," "The House of the Black Ring," "The Marathon Mystery," and Champlin's "Young Folks' Cyclopædia of Natural History." "Shakespeare's London," by Henry Thew Stephenson; and "Dramatists of To-Day," by Edward Everett Hale, jr., appeal to a smaller circle, but are also meeting with true appreciation.

J. B. CARRINGTON, for many years connected with the editorial department of Scribner's Magazine, has prepared a lecture on "American Illustration of To-Day," including methods of reproduction in black and white and colors. The lecture will be illustrated with upward of one hundred lantern slides, many of them colored, from the work of Howard Pyle, A. B. Frost, Maxfield Parrish, C. D. Gibson and others equally well known. Mr. Carrington's address is 14 West Twelfth Street, New York City.

FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY publish this week "A Courier of Fortune," the new romance by Arthur W. Marchmont, author of "When I Was Czar," etc.; also, "The Wedding Souvenir," a new gift book containing the best thoughts of the great poets and prose writers on the wedding day, the ring, marriage, love, sympathy, forbearance, duty, constancy, unity, hope, and other appropriate subjects. It is appropriately and beautifully bound, and contains a wedding certificate and pages for autographs or various records.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. have just ready the "Life of James Watt," the inventor of the steam engine, by Andrew Carnegie; "The Walking Delegate," by Leroy Scott; also, "Fairy Tales Every Child Should Know," edited by Hamilton W. Mabie. The publication of "Sons o' Men," by G. B. Lancaster, has been postponed by Doubleday, Page & Company, the serial rights having been purchased by a well known magazine, whose editor believes that the story is one of the most virile since Kipling's first Indian tales galvanized readers.

THE FOREST AND STREAM will publish this spring a volume entitled "Hunting Without a Gun," by Rowland E. Robinson, author of "Sam Lovel's Camp," etc., who, notwithstanding the fact that he has lost his sight, tells in the most charming manner of the pleasures of the nature lover who seeks out the wild creatures without intending to harm them; "Camp Fires in the Wilderness," by E. W. Burt, full of instruction in forest lore for the novice and of charm for the old camper; also, "Gas Engines and Launches," by F. K. Grain, a manual intended to assist the novice in running a gas engine.

THE COMMONWEALTH COMPANY, New York, have just brought out a new and improved edition of Doane's "Bible Myths and their Parallels in Other Religions," with numerous illustrations. This work is a comparison of the Old and New Testament myths and miracles with those of the Heathen nations of antiquity, considering their origin and meaning. The book is in effect an encyclopedia of the subject treated, containing quotations from many of the sacred books of Heathen nations, and from other rare and valuable works not accessible to most people. Every fact is verified by copious notes and authorities.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY have just issued "Mirabeau and the French Revolution," by Charles F. Warwick, whose first intention was to trace briefly the causes of the French Revolution and to group its principal events around Mirabeau, then Danton, and lastly Robespierre. His material grew beyond his plan, and he now hopes to follow this work with biographies of Danton and Robespierre. They will publish shortly a volume entitled "Diplomatic Mysteries," by Vance Thompson, in which the author claims to give the "inside histories" of some of the most startling chapters in European diplomacy—such, for example, as the romance and tragic death of King Ludwig II. of Bavaria; the plot that ended the life of President Faure of France; the terrible taking off of King Rudolph; the violent death of the Empress of Austria, etc. The volume will be adequately illustrated.

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. have just published "Adventures Among Books," by Andrew Lang, a collection of essays on Oliver Wendell Holmes, Smollett, Hawthorne, Mrs. Radcliffe's novels, "The Supernatural in Fiction," "Stories and Story Telling," etc. They have also just ready "The Crisis of the Confederacy," a history of Gettysburg and the Wilderness, by Cecil Battine, Captain 15th King's Hussars, and the first volume of a treatise on "International Law," by L. Oppenheim of the University of London. They have postponed until the fall the publication of Vols. II. and X. in their "Political History of England," edited by the Rev. William Hunt and Reginald L. Poole, originally announced for summer issue. Vol. II. takes up the history from 1066 until 1216, and is by Prof. George Burton Adams, of Yale University; Vol. X. by the Rev. William Hunt, of Trinity College, Oxford, England, treats of the times between 1760 and 1801.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS will publish on the 22d inst. a new issue of "The Leavenworth Case," by Anna Katharine Green, one of the best American detective stories, which, though published twenty years ago, still remains the standard of comparison for later detective stories, many of which have been announced as equal to "The Leavenworth Case." The new issue will be printed from new plates. They have in preparation a volume of "Talks in a Library with Laurence Hutton," by Isobel Moore. The author spent many hours in this library with Mr. Hutton, who talked to her spontaneously and familiarly about the various books and objects it contained and the associations and people connected with them. These talks Miss Moore wrote down and put in literary form. Her manuscript was read and revised by Mr. Hutton shortly before his death, and the book accordingly stands as his last word to the public and his friends.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS announce four artistic calendars for 1906, the designs for which are drawn by well known illustrators, and handsomely printed in colors. One of these is a series of pastel drawings, by Harrison Fisher, of beautiful girls, including a bride, a horsewoman, a summer girl in a swing and another in bright colored evening dress. Sarah S. Stilwell has made a calendar devoted to the portrayal of child life. On the title-page is the head of a beautiful baby girl in a white bonnet and with blue ribbons, relieved by a gold background. The pictures are all reproductions from oil paintings in full color. Henry Hutt has contributed a calendar of five full figure drawings in his most successful vein of the seasons typified by beautiful girls fittingly occupied. The fifth calendar is by Grace G. Wiederseim, composed of six "Mother Goose" subjects, in full colors, accompanied by the rhymes. The designs are mounted on boards 14 x 22 inches.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY will publish this spring a volume of "Problems in Manoeuvre Tactics, with Solutions, for Officers of All Arms," by Major Hoppenstedt, instructor at the War School at Potsdam, translated by Major J. H. V. Crowe. The book is designed to assist officers in self-instruction in manoeuvre tactics and in preparing for examinations, to provide suggestions in the drawing up of schemes for manoeuvres, field days, staff rides, and war games, and to familiarize officers with the action of the three Arms when working in co-operation. They have also in preparation "Harvard Lectures on the Revival of Learning," by Professor John E. Sandys, of St. John's College, Cambridge, a series of six lectures delivered at Harvard during March and April of the present year, in which the author discusses certain aspects of the revival of learning in Italy, mainly in relation to the recovery of the Latin classics and the renewed interest in their study.

HARPER & BROTHERS have brought out this week a novel by Frederick Trevor Hill, author of "The Web," etc., which bears the title of "The Accomplish." It is the story of a very exciting trial, told by the foreman of the jury. Throughout the whole book the reader is placed in the position of a conscientious juror charged with a life-and-death responsibility, and has to judge the conflicting testimony from the viewpoint of the jury-box. The foreman becomes involved in the action outside of the courtroom, which seriously complicates matters for him. The trial is skilfully handled, the dénouement being most unexpected. Interwoven with the search for the criminal is a very charming love story. They will publish shortly Hamlin Garland's novel, "The Tyranny of the Dark." The scene is laid first in the Rocky Mountains and later in New York. The book contains some suggestive considerations as to the relation of the occult to the material, woven skilfully into the plot of the story. The Harpers originally intended to publish the book in April, but the advance orders proving greater than had been expected, a delay was necessary in order to prepare a larger edition than had been planned for.

A. C. McCLURG & Co. will publish at once a valuable book by Russell Sturgis, entitled, "The Interdependence of the Arts of Design," a series of lectures delivered at The Art Institute of Chicago; also, another of Sherwin Cody's useful compilations, this time "A Selection from the Great English Poets;" also, "Iowa, the First Free State in the Louisiana Purchase," from its earliest discovery to the admission of the State into the Union. They announce for early publication the first two volumes of The Life and Nature Books, edited by Charles Welsh, one of the pioneers of organized and systematic direct study of the tastes of children in the matter of their reading. The volumes are: "The Bee People," by Margaret W. Morley, and "Lady Lee and other Animal Stories," by Hermon Lee Ensign, both of which have achieved signal success on McClurg's list. In their new form the books will be attractive small quarto volumes, and will be furnished with notes and questions for the use of the teacher. These two will be followed later by Miss Morley's "Little Mitchell," "The Song of Life," Miss Patterson's "The Spinner Family," Miss Wheelock's "Nestlings of Forest and Marsh," and Mr. Keyser's "Birds of the Rockies."

Fox, DUFFIELD & Co. celebrated on the 1st inst. the second anniversary of their birth as publishers with the issue of "Old Masters and New," a volume of essays in art criticism by the distinguished painter and art critic, Kenyon Cox. The first book published by this house two years ago was a reprint of the old morality play of "Everyman," which has since gone through several large editions. Among the other successes of this young publishing house in the first two years of its existence have been "The Autobiography of a Thief," by Hutchins Hapgood, now dramatic critic of the Chicago Evening Post; "Herbert Spencer," by Professor Josiah Royce; a prose translation of "The Canterbury Tales," by Percy MacKaye; "Rhymes of Real Children," by Betty Sage; "The Compromises of Life," by Col. Henry Watterson, of the Louisville Courier Journal; "The Blue Grass Cook Book;" "Babes in Toyland;" "Misrepresentative Men," and various others. They have just brought out "Hester of the Grants," a romance of old Bennington, by Miss Theodora Peck, dealing with people and times in early Vermont when that State was a portion of the so-called Hampshire Grants; also, "The Case of Russia," a composite view, consisting of chapters contributed by various writers who are authorities on their special branches of the subject. They have been obliged to postpone publication of two of the books on their spring list. One of these delayed volumes is the "Letters of Henrik Ibsen," a preoccupied messenger boy having inadvertently lost overboard from a New York ferry-boat the bulk of the translated letters. The other volume is Okakura Kakuzo's "The Book of Tea," one chapter of which was printed in the April number of The International Quarterly. The author has been summoned to Japan by no less a person than the Mikado himself, and when the Emperor calls the publisher and the public must wait. Both volumes are confidently expected to appear in the autumn.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amounts should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplaced, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

What God Hath (Not) Joined

By ORR KENYON. $5\frac{1}{8} \times 7\frac{1}{2}$. Cloth.
Illustrated. $1.50.

THIS is a notable novel, as it deals with the divorce problem in a new manner. It contains a strong argument in favor of divorce under certain conditions. Woven around this theme is a charming tale of love interspersed with the rich humor, sound advice and philosophy of a country judge, Cabel Koons. This book unquestionably will receive wide attention from the press and pulpit.

What to Have for Dinner

By FANNY MERRITT FARMER, author of the "Boston Cooking School Cook Book." $5\frac{1}{8} \times 7\frac{1}{2}$. Cloth. Illustrated. \$1.50.

THIS is the second in our series of cook books by prominent writers of which "What to Have for Luncheon," by Mary J. Lincoln, was the first. Miss Farmer's new book is thoroughly practical and suited to the needs of families of moderate means. The menus are carefully arranged by the author and will save the house-keeper many a perplexing hour. As an authority Miss Farmer stands without a superior, and is well known for her painstaking and thorough work. The book will be illustrated with many colored illustrations which will greatly add to the value of the work.

JÖRN UHL

By GUSTAV FRENSSEN

Translated by F. S. DELMER

- ¶ All Europe is talking about this remarkable novel.
- ¶ "Jörn Uhl" introduces scenes and characters wholly new to most American readers.
- ¶ The peasant hero, whose name gives the title to the romance, is one of the most powerful creations in modern fiction.
- ¶ Many social and ethical problems of the day are touched upon in the book, and the plot is of great interest.

THANK YOU, GENTLEMEN, THANK YOU

So deep is the satisfaction with our offer that two single orders received would, if filled, use up the entire first edition of that has been advertised by us in THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY only three times.

The Merriam Co.'s threats to sue seem to have lost their effect as applied to this book. They must feel very bad over it, so we don't know that we blame them very much. It IS almost the kind of a "blow that killed Father"—so to speak. Dictionaries will be cheaper than dirt before we get through with the business. Think of buying as good a dictionary as has cost 80c. net, heretofore, through other publishers, for 35c. net from us!!! Food for thought? Well yes! Some, and not dry breakfast food either.

We will fill part of all orders received, and as soon as the next edition is ready orders will be filled as received in their entirety.

Diplomatic Mysteries

By VANCE THOMPSON

Illustrated. Cloth, $1.50 Net. Postage 12 cents extra

HIS is not a novel, but it is more fascinating than any fiction. Mr. Thompson is a trained writer of international reputation. He has spent many years in Europe, living in the foreign capitals. In his book he tells the "inside stories" of some of the most startling chapters in European diplomacy, as he has heard them in part or in whole from those who played the most potent and often most secret parts in them.

He tells of the romance and tragic end of King Ludwig II.; of the plot which ended the life of President Faure of France; how the Sultan of Turkey has spread a great net of secret agents over the whole of Europe; of King Rudolph's futile efforts to assert his authority and his terrible taking off; of the violent death of the Empress of Austria; of "the only free man in Russia"—Tolstoi; of the secret causes of the present war between Russia and Japan, and many other sensational secrets of European circles of state.

Mr. Thompson writes in a style of uncommon vigor and vividness, and gives us a series of pen pictures which are remarkable for their dramatic quality and absorbing interest.

The illustrations are many and well done.
